CODE OF CONDUCT

Dear Colleagues,

We are glad to present our updated Code of Conduct, that has been approved by Logista's Board of Directors. As you may know, the Code of Conduct is the result of the Company's firm commitment to ethical principles and fair business behaviours, adapted to Logista's present footprint and to best market practices. It is specifically aimed at reinforcing the principles of exemplarity, business integrity, transparency, and compliance with laws, that must govern our actions and decisions.

Logista's employees, its clients, suppliers, business partners, shareholders and communities in which we are involved are the basis of our activities, and this Code of Conduct intends to serve as a guideline for all of them in the effort to foster respect, equality, diversity and creation of long-term sustainable value.

As members of Logista, we are all expected to act in compliance with the highest ethical standards. It is our personal duty to comply with the Code of Conduct and to raise our concerns if we think any unethical or illegal behaviour might be taking place.

We encourage you to understand and get familiar with this Code of Conduct, and to use it in your decisions; it contains useful guidelines and recommendations that the Board of Directors hope will help us to take the right decisions, and also provides us with the necessary tools to ask for advice whenever we need it. By doing so, you are helping Logista to continue on its path of growth in a sustainable way, confirming its credibility and reputation within all its stakeholders.

All of us are personally responsible to comply with the Code of Conduct in our daily activities; this is a commitment that none of us may withdraw. That said, those of us that hold managerial responsibilities within the Group are specifically expected to contribute with our example and to show those persons under our supervision that the ethical principles and guidelines contained in the Code of Conduct are effectively put in place throughout all our operations and activities.

Thank you for your commitment with ethics and compliance.

Leganés, 20 July 2023.

1. HOW DOES OUR CODE WORK

- Purpose

Since its foundation, Logista has created, promoted and supported a business culture and philosophy based on the principles of compliance with laws, honesty, integrity in management, and transparency in the Group's actions and relations with its shareholders, employees, suppliers, customers, communities and other stakeholders.

This Code of Conduct (the "Code of Conduct" or the "Code") establishes the standards and ethical principles that govern our activities, sets the requirements for conduct that all Members of the Group should comply with in their day-to-day work and, finally, serves as the key basis for the Group's Policies and Procedures, all of which should be interpreted and applied according to the general framework of this Code.

- Scope of Application

This Code of Conduct is applicable to Compañía de Distribución Integral Logista Holdings, S.A. and all its subsidiaries and affiliates ("Logista", or the "Group").

All employees, either permanent or temporary, managers, directors, legal representatives and, in general, any person subject to the authority of Logista (collectively, the "Members") are required to understand and comply with the Code of Conduct, the Group's Policies and Procedures and with the applicable laws and regulations.

Board members, directors or managers appointed by Logista in the boards or management positions of companies in which Logista has an equity or stake, but which are not controlled by it, will be obliged to comply with this Code, and will internally observe the application of this Code of Conduct as appropriate.

Third parties with which Logista maintains any type of business, commercial or professional relationship, such as providers, customers, and business partners, should comply with the requirements described in this Code of Conduct when acting for or in connection with the Group.

- Member's Responsibility

Each of us, as Members, is responsible for acting according to the provisions of this Code. We don't behave according to what others do: it is our personal responsibility to comply with the Code of Conduct, and to raise our voice if we see or suspect any unethical or illegal behaviour.

On the basis of the above, Members should always follow these minimum guidelines:

- ✓ Ensure we know, understand and comply with the Code of Conduct and the Group's Policies and Procedures.

Logista

- ✓ Carry out our activities in a professional and ethical manner.
- ✓ Complete all Group's regular training.
- ✓ Immediately report actual or potential breaches of the Code of Conduct, of the Group's Policies and Procedures or of the law, even when such breach could come from a third party in its commercial, business or professional relations with the Group.

A breach of the Code of Conduct or of the Group's Policies and Procedures may be constitutive of a labour infringement and, in this case, it will be punishable under the labour disciplinary regime in force, according to laws or collective agreements.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, such breach may lead to legal actions in case of infringement of criminal, civil or commercial laws or obligations.

- Manager's Responsibility

Managers have the fundamental responsibility to set the "tone at the top", serving as a role model for the employees under their supervision. With this purpose, managers should ensure to:

- ✓ Share and explain the Code of Conduct, helping the employees under their supervision to understand and comply with it.
- ✓ Offer guidance and support about the Code of Conduct.
- ✓ Encourage the employees under their supervision to ask questions, raise concerns and speak up.
- ✓ Take the actions needed to immediately stop any actual or potential situation in their area of responsibility that might be contrary to the provisions of the Code of Conduct, and report them to their Local Compliance Unit or, where appropriate, to the Group's Compliance Committee.

- How to Make the Right Decision

It is impossible to anticipate or regulate every question or situation. If you are unsure about how does the Code of Conduct rule any particular topic, or what decision should be taken about a specific business action or decision, ask yourself the following questions:

- ✓ Is it legal?
- ✓ Will it appear ethical to stakeholders?
- ✓ Is it consistent with our Code of Conduct and values?
- ✓ Am I giving a good example?

Logista

- ✓ Do I understand the consequences?
- ✓ Would I be comfortable explaining my actions to my colleagues, family and friends?
- ✓ Would Logista and/or myself be comfortable if it was reported in the news?

If the answer to any of these questions is “no”, then the next step is clear: don’t proceed, and ask for guidance from your immediate manager. Always remember that the Group has implemented the adequate processes, guidance and resources to help its Members to follow the Code of Conduct.

- Questions, Concerns and Complaints

You can raise questions or concerns about any topic related to the Code of Conduct to your immediate manager. If you do not feel comfortable speaking up to your immediate manager, you can raise your concerns to a higher level manager, or you can contact your Local Compliance Unit or the Group’s Compliance Committee.

Members that have knowledge, evidence, or reasonable suspicion of a breach of the Code of Conduct, the Group’s Policies and Procedures or of the applicable law, must report it immediately by communication to the Group’s Whistleblowing Channel.

The communication may be addressed by ordinary post, in written form, to the address “Logista – Att. Compliance Committee – c/ Trigo, 39, Leganés (28914 Madrid) España”, or by email to the email address complaintschannel@logista.com. These communications shall be managed and decided according to the provisions of the Whistleblowing Policy of Logista and its local implementing Procedures.

- Non-retaliation

Logista will not tolerate any form of retaliation against an individual who in good faith discloses or reports an actual or suspected breach of the Code of Conduct. Retaliation may result in discipline, up to and including dismissal.

Reports of suspected breaches of the Code shall be considered to be made in good faith as long as they provide complete and accurate information about a specific topic, even if they finally are found mistaken or unsubstantiated.

Logista

Conflicts of interest can have a significant negative impact on the Logista reputation. It is therefore very important that Members recognize and take proactive actions to prevent conflicts of interest. By way of example, a conflict of interest may arise when a Member:

It is not always clear when a particular situation could create a conflict of interest. However, if you are, or think you could be, subject to an actual or potential conflict of interest, you should follow the following rules:

- ✓ Communicate in writing the actual or potential conflict of interest to your immediate manager.
- ✓ Abstain from making any decision or taking any direct or indirect action in connection with the matter or person subject of the conflict of interest.

Once you have communicated the actual or potential conflict of interest, the situation will be evaluated by your immediate manager together with the Local Compliance Unit or the Group's Compliance Committee. They will determine whether a conflict of interest effectively exists, and the appropriate measures to manage the potential risks. It is your duty to follow these guidelines strictly.

Sometimes, conflict of interest may involve the management. Where an Executive Director is involved, the conflict will be managed according to the applicable law. Where a Corporate Manager, General Manager or Business Manager is involved, the potential conflict of interest will be managed by a specific Committee integrated by the Group's Compliance Officer, the Logista believes in fair competition. Excellence and professionalism in the provision of our services has made us the leading Group that we are. However, we must always compete fairly and in accordance with competition laws.

Anti-competition conducts are unethical, harm the market, damage our reputation and may give rise to significant fines to Logista and the involved Members. By way of example, Members should raise a "red flag" in case facing any of the following situations:

- ✓ If you think that commercially sensitive information between competitors is being exchanged, or if you think we are participating in any scheme for sharing such information.
- ✓ If you consider that we may be participating in anticompetitive agreements with competitors, such as agreements on pricing, commercial conditions, wages or distribution costs.

- ✓ If you think there is a case of abuse of dominant position; for example, by denying third parties access to our distribution services without a legitimate reason, or by boycotting a supplier, customer or distributor.

- ✓ If you become aware that we may be obtaining confidential or non-public information from a competitor from new hires or candidates for employment at Logista.
